NO MORE SATURDAY SCHOOL

Time Lost During "Flu" Epidemic Largely Made up—Summer Vacation May Begin May 16.

At a metting of the school board held last evening, it was decided not to hold school on Saturdays the rest of this term. Since influenza caused the schools to be closed a few weeks last fall, school has been held on Saturday mornings to make up for the time lost. In addition to this school has also continued for thirty minutes longer each day but this will not be changed at the present time. No action has been taken by the board as to the closing day of the schools but it is thought it will be May 16.

The board also decided to take up another bond of the bond issue of the Washington building, if the bond owner will dispose of it. With this bond paid off, it will leave only $10,000 yet remainingto be paid and which runs until 1928.

A mass meeting will be held Friday evening for the purpose of nominating school directors. The two retiring members are James B. Robinson and J. R. Brink and both of them will probably be nominated again.

ACTION IN REED FIGHT

Believed Meeting Has Been Called at Request of Democratic Legislators Who Plan Convention.

George Robb Ellison, a member of the Democratic State Committee, will leave for Jefferson City Thursday night to attend a meeting of the permanent organization committee of the State Committee. This committee is composed of fourteen members and besides Mr. Ellison, Judge Charles H. Mayer of St. Joseph is the other representative from this district.

In a letter to Mr. Ellison from Chairman Ben M. Neale, of the committee, it is stated that business of great importance will come up.

It is suspected that the meeting is called at the request of the Democratic legislators who are wanting a Democratic State Convention to take action against Senator Reed.

According to today's Kansas City Times, a "round robin" urging Mr. Neale to call such a meeting of the state committee at which it will be determined whether a Democratic state convention be held to take action in the fight Democratic legislators have launched against Senator James A. Reed has been signed by some forty Democratic members of the House of Representatives. William Job of Nodaway county, signed the letter.

They were unable to give the name of the man where they stole the horse or of the man to whom it was sold.

From the Pederson home they took neckties, shirts, cuff buttons and 33 cents.

SEN. BORAH WANTS TO KNOW

He Desires To Be Informed What Has Become of the 100 Million Dollar Food Fund.

Washington, March 25.—What has become of the 100 million dollar appropriation for food supplies for Europe after we were assured it would help check the spread of Bolshevism westward? This was the pointed question asked by senator Borah today when his attention was directed to senator Hitchcock's declaration that he thought the Entente would succeed in combating the Bolsheviki of Hungary with economic pressure rather than to have to resort to the military. Senator Borah differed, however, as to what the outcome of the speeding up or the work of the peace commission would be.

CHURCH DRIVE WAS SUCCESS

It Is Announced That Victory Fund Given by Presbyterians Was Raised Maryville Church Over Top.

Dr. S. A. Coile, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and chairman of the New Era movement for the St. Joseph presbytery, has received a message from the general headquarters in New York city, that the big Victory drive being made by the Presbyterian denomination which culminated Sunday, has been highly successful.

March was designated as the "Month of Victory" for the Presbyterian people all over the country to raise fifty million dollars to carry on the work of reconstruction work over seas and finance the work in their own country made necessary by the great change in world condition. The result of the drive for the Maryville church has not been fully ascertained yet, but the pastor and workers are anticipating that it will not fall behind. All other churches in the district have been heard from and all have gone over the top with the exception of one. The Tarkio church exceeded the quota asked of it for the New Era work by nearly a thousand dollars.

Dr. Coile has spent the major part of the last month in working over the district in the interest of the movement which is the greatest in the history of the church. In the drive being made by the local church, the total for current expenses of the church for the year is being raised.

PAID TO HAVE SPEECH HEARD

How Governor Gardner Bargained for an Audience Upon Which to Practise Campaign Oration.

The preparation of Governor Gardner's initial speech in the gubernatorial campaign of 1916 was described to a group of newspaper men at Jefferson City recently by Omar D. Gray, state oil inspector, and himself a newspaper man, who managed the Gardner campaign. The speech was written and memorized in the mountains of California, where Mr. and Mrs. Gray were the guests of the Gardners on a hunting trip. His story follows:

"The funniest incident I remember is watching the governor parade up and down the mountain canyon committing to memory his speech, which was delivered in Chillicothe, Mo., in the latter part of September, 1916, when the fall campaign of the Democrats was opened in Missouri.

"When I arrived in California I found the governor very busy on his speech. During the primary campaign he carefully noted many of the urgent needs of the state. When I arrived at his Long Beech home he had that speech carefully mapped out—all the main points were being diagramed and every moment of his spare time was put in shaping that speech. At the end of a week we bundled up speech and all and went camping.

"Then the fun began in the camp. Every afternoon the governor would steal off up the canyon and memorize a section of that speech. Then when the camp fire was lighted at night and the dishes had been washed and put away, we would call the governor up on the carpet of green and urge him to give us the latest thoughts in the speech. He generally responded, and, in a week, all the campers could repeat the address almost word for word.

"Of course, we got tired of hearing it, so the governor, in order to get an audience, bargained with his daughter, Janet, and son, Dozier, to listen to his utterances. He paid them twenty-five cents each, but became disgusted and gave up when both went to sleep listening to him."

13 MONTHS IN YEAR?

MOVEMENT IS ON TO MAKE CALENDAR ON A 28 DAY BASIS.

IT'S WORTH CONSIDERING

There Would be Joy in it for the Wage Earner Besides Saving Lots of Valuable Time for Everybody.

Sunday, March 23, you say? Well, you're wrong. It's Sunday, Liberty 28. If you have any doubts, ask some of those American Equal Month Calendar Association fellows up in Minneapolis. They'll tell you the same, and they'll add one month from today will be Sunday, April 28; a month from that, Sunday, May 28—and so on through out the thirteen months of the year.

Sort of a jolt there, too, isn't there? In that "thirteen months" remark? But there's a joy in it, too, for the wage earner whose value is measured in terms of months, if the bill the association has prepared for introduction into Congress is passed. For a bunch of business men, bankers and reformers in Minneapolis have pledged themselves to a calendar revolution.

The Gregorian calendar, established in 1577 under Pope Gregory, is too clumsy and moth eaten for the business world of today, say these chaps and they declare that what is needed is a standard method of reckoning time that will not vary with the months and the years. Some method by which a banker may determine on what day of the week and month a note will fall due without wasting valuable time thumbing through a calendar.

You know how it is yourself. Just offhand, now, on what day does Christmas come next year—or even this year? You'll have to look it up won't you? Well, under the calendar these Minneapolis men advocate, and which they are urging the rest of the country to accept, Christmas falls on Thursday, December 25, every year. Simple, isn't it?

The year is divided into thirteen months of twenty-eight days each. Monday falls on the 1st, 8th, 15th, and 22d of every month; Tuesday on the 2d, 9th, 1th, and 23d; Wednesday on the 3d, 10th, 17th and 24th; Thursday on the 4th, 11th, 18th and 25th; Friday on the 5th, 12th, 19th and 26; Saturday on the 6th, 13th, 20th and 27; and Sunday, the last day of the week, on the 7th, 14th, 21st and 28th.

Religious sects might unite on their day of worship for the Sabbath. Sunday and the seventh day of the week fall on the same day. And for the superstitious, who dread Friday the 13th, as a Bolshevick fears soap, there must be some relief in the fact that the Liberty Calendar, for such it has been named, eliminates the possibility of Friday ever coming on the 13th.

Thanksgiving, by custom relegated to the last Thursday in November, must always fall on the 25th, while the Fourth of July would always be Thursday. Thus the Liberty Calendar simplifies the task of the bank clerk in keeping tab on holidays.

Of course, though, a system which considers thirteen months of four weeks each, can only account for 364 days. The present calendar, from which the devotees of the new sceme of time reckoning want to deviate as little as possible, bases the number of days in the year upon astronomical motion, the length of time required for the earth to revolve about the sun, or 365 days, with one additional day every four years—the 29th of February on Leap Year. This 365th day of the Liberty Calendar places in no month and in no week. It would make of New Year's day an orphan, falling between December 28th of the old year and January 1 of the new year. It's a holiday, anyhow, the Liberty Calendar sponsors say, so why take cognizance of it in a business day calendar.

And then, every four years, they would sandwich in another orphan between some two months to take care of the twenty-four hours which February mothers on Leap Year under the Gregorian system. And, as a day needs a name the same as anybody else, they would call this one "Correction Day," and would make of it another legal holiday. As once every one hundred years leap year is omitted, unless the number of the year is divisible by four hundred, "Correction Day" would have the same fate.

The present names of the months would be retained, with the addition of "Liberty" month, falling between February and March.

The conservative old world shouldn't be so very wild-eyed in its amazement, these revolutionists maintain, for it's seen a few such changes before. It wasn't till 1752, when the day after September 2 was made September 14, that the British parliament adopted the Gregorian "New Style" calendar, so the birthday of George Washington, which we celebrate on February 22, really was February 11, 1732, under the "Old Style" reckoning, which preceded the Gregorian.

Incidentally, riots attended the change to the Georgian system on the grounds that, by moving the calendar ahead ten days, the lives of the people would be shortened that length of time. The Minneapolis men who are already making use of the new plan of reckoning time, have not yet experienced any such protest, and do not anticipate it, as while they have their stationery stamped with the Liberty date line, they also carry the Gregorian. And they do not propose the universal adoption of the new system before 1922, when New Year's Day is on Sunday and the new Liberty year might begin the next day as Monday, January 1.

"The intimate article of dress known as the corset which the majority of women wear but know very little about"

Alice S. Cutler, M. D.

IN this pertinent way the well-known medical authority, Alice S. Cutler, M. D., describes the most important garment in the wardrobe of women.

"Buy your corset carefully," warns Dr. Cutler. "No one wants to be ill, and when women realize that the constant wearing of an ill-fitting corset helps to keep our hospitals open they will insist on being properly fitted to corsets instead of buying them hit or miss."

We unreservedly recommend Gossard Corsets, the original front-lacing corsets, as the complete expression of modern corsetry. Every Gossard Corset is hygienically correct. If properly fitted to the figure for which it was designed, and carefully adjusted each time it is worn, it will mould that figure to the ideal proportions of its type. It will give a priceless all-day comfort. It will safeguard the wearer against those bodily ailments that are often the result of improper corsetry. It will render a wearing service that alone is worth the price paid for the garment.

If possible, the new Spring and Summer Gossards are superior to those of the past season, which were generally acknowledged to be without equal in meeting the needs of active womanhood from the standpoint of comfort, hygiene, wear and figure improvement.

Our highly specialized fitted service reflects our sincere appreciation of the important relation a correctly fitted corset bears to your health, and to that perfect figure poise that gives the elusive charm of style.

ABOUT MEMORIALS

NATIONAL FINE ARTS COMMISSION WARS AGAINST SOLICITORS

URGE COMMUNITY CLUBS

Community Building Would Commemorate and Keep Alive Spirit Manifested Throughout the War.

Washington, March 25.—Practically every city in America, right now, is struggling with the same problem Kansas City is—a suitable memorial to the soldier and sailor heroes of the great war. Congress has been deluged with proposals for the Nation to erect a fitting memorial as its tribute. And the Nation will, inside of the next two years, adopt some big memorial idea. The trouble right now is that every person with a quack idea is attempting to sell it to the Nation on the idea that it would make a "fitting tribute and the only fitting tribute" to the fighting men who fell on the battle fields of Europe.

All the various proposals to the last Congress were referred to the National Fine Arts Commission, an advisory body of some of the best artistic talent in the country, which has made it its job to advise with Congress on beautifying Washington. It is recognized as one of the strongest bodies of its kind the country could muster. Instead of recommending one hard and fast plan for a national soldiers' memorial, the Fine Arts Commission has made a general report on soldiers' memorials that is of value to the entire community. It discusses the problem, not as applying to Washington, but to the country at large—from the standpoint of the small country town eager to put up some suitable memorial, as well as the city or state that is considering projects in the millions of dollars.

Warns Against Solicitors.

To begin with the Fine Arts Commission issues a warning that is particularly applicable to the small towns that are undertaking memorials. It recognizes that a tablet or memorial plate is about all that some towns can afford, but says that care must be taken to see that something enduring and worth while is obtained in this type of a memorial. The report says:

"Already firms have sent out their solicitors to take orders for statues and tablets and the land is threatened with a deluge of sterotyped forms of memorials. Many persons are persuaded that, in buying these manifold reproductions, they are making a contribution to art and are working for the improvement of their city or town, when as a matter of fact they are doing the reverse. Works of art are creations in which good proportions, simplicity and charm of design and suitability to the occasion are happily blended. If attempt is made to secure novelty, striking effects and what is popularly called "originality," the result will not be permanently pleasing. The next generation will find the thing a burden and vexation and will seek to rid themselves of the incumbus. Individuality and distinction are to be sought and these are the elements that the artist alone can furnish."

The commission goes on to say that if a tablet or plate is what the town decides it shall adopt, that it can be worked into a very fitting artistic memorial. "Memorial tablets," says the report, "whether for out of doors or for the walls of church, city hall, lodge or other building, offer a wide field for the designer. The tablets get value from the beauty of form and especially from design of the lettering. The inscription should be designed, even to the names of the individuals, and should not be made from type kept in stock by the tablet maker.

Of larger memorials the Fine Arts Commission mentions first the memorial building. The commission itself does not attempt to recommend any type, although the commissioner of education, P. P. Claxton, is undertaking a national campaign to have municipalities adopt the "Community Building" as a memorial. The bureau of education suggests that for the sake of economy it might be a school and community center building combined. In other words, the building should be a community club. The Fine Arts Commission in discussing the "Community Building" memorial says: "Such a building would commemorate and keep alive the spirit so strikingly manifested throughout the war of an entire community uniting in a common service for the common good. It should be understood, however, that such a building, so largely utilitarian, cannot satisfy the desire for a purely commemorative work of art.'

The commission cautions against portrait statues of soldier heroes. It says such statues can be had that are works of are but that they are rare. In any event, should it be decided to erect such a memorial, the commission urges that real artists be employed, otherwise in a few years the statue will be regarded not as a town adornment. It gives much the same suggestion on "stained-glass" window memorials. Only the most competent advice should be had, it urges, should this form of a memorial be adopted.

The commission mentions gateways to parks, symbolic groups and such forms of statuary, bell towers and memorial rooms. It gives this general advice on the subject.

"If the utilitarian structure shall be used, it is of first importance that it shall impress the beholder by beauty of design, the permanent nature of the material used and the fitness of the setting. What shall be done is less important than the manner in which it is done."

The common difficulty communities find themselves in, concludes the Fine Arts Commission, is that the object of the memorial oftentimes is lost sight of in the selection. "It should ever be borne in mind that the object for which the memorial is erected is to honor heroism, patriotism and devotion to the continued progress of civilization, rendered at personal sacrifice. The monument of whatever kind should correspond in its essential character to those lofty ideals. Display of wealth, ostentation, anad over-elaborateness are unbecoming and vulgar. Elegant simplicity, strength with refinement, and a grace of handling that imparts charm are the ends to be sought."

THE DEATH PENALTY

HOMICIDE HAS DECREASED SINCE IT WAS ABOLISHED

NOT CRIME DETERRENT

Bill to Re-establish Capital Punishment in State Will Find Strong Opposition.

Jefferson City, March 25.—Not only has the number of homicides in Missouri decreased since the abolition of capital punishment but in all the states of the union where the death penalty still is inflicted for crime there is a larger proportion of homicides to population than in the states where it has been abolished, according to figures obtained by Rep. O. B. Whitaker of Hickory county, who is leading the opposition to the bill before the fiftieth general assembly proposing to re-establish the death penalty.

Missouri was without a provision for capital punishment during part of 1917 and all of 1918 as the result of a law enacted by the last legislature written and introduced by Mr. Whitaker and repealing a capital punishment law written by his father. Figures the present Hickory county representative has obtained show that in 1916 the number of homicides in Missouri increased sixty-eight over the previous year and in 1917, forty over the previous year, but in 1918 there was a decrease of eleven in the total for the state. There has been no lynching in the state, Mr. Whitaker pointed out in a circular placed on the desks of all the legislators, since capital punishment was abolished.

Six Have Abolished Penalty

According to the compilation, based on the last available federal statistics, in the registration area of the United States there are twenty states of which fourteen now inflict the death penalty as a deterrent for crime and six which have abolished the death penalty. "In the states that have abolished the death penalty," says the circular, "there is an average of approximately three and one-half homicides to every 100,000 population. In the states that have not abolished the death penalty there is an average of approximately eight and one-half homicides to every 100,000 populations."

Mr. Whitaker incorporates in the statement data previously given out showing the answers received to letters he wrote to the governors of eleven states where the death penalty has been abolished to show that these executives did not believe crime has increased, denied that the particular crimes for which the death penalty was formerly inflicted had increased, said lynching had not increased, and the people of their states did not want a return to the capital punishment laws.

"There are unanswerable arguments for enacting the law two years ago, abolishing the death penalty in Missouri," he concludes. "Are there not now additional reasons why the law should not be repealed?"

A poll of the students at four Missouri normal schools showed sentiment strongly against a return to capital punishment.

NO MORE SATURDAY SCHOOL

Time Lost During "Flu" Epidemic Largely Made up—Summer Vacation May Begin May 16.

At a metting of the school board held last evening, it was decided not to hold school on Saturdays the rest of this term. Since influenza caused the schools to be closed a few weeks last fall, school has been held on Saturday mornings to make up for the time lost. In addition to this school has also continued for thirty minutes longer each day but this will not be changed at the present time. No action has been taken by the board as to the closing day of the schools but it is thought it will be May 16.

The board also decided to take up another bond of the bond issue of the Washington building, if the bond owner will dispose of it. With this bond paid off, it will leave only $10,000 yet remainingto be paid and which runs until 1928.

A mass meeting will be held Friday evening for the purpose of nominating school directors. The two retiring members are James B. Robinson and J. R. Brink and both of them will probably be nominated again.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION COMMITTEE CALLED TO JEFF CITY

ACTION IN REED FIGHT

Believed Meeting Has Been Called at Request of Democratic Legislators Who Plan Convention.

George Robb Ellison, a member of the Democratic State Committee, will leave for Jefferson City Thursday night to attend a meeting of the permanent organization committee of the State Committee. This committee is composed of fourteen members and besides Mr. Ellison, Judge Charles H. Mayer of St. Joseph is the other representative from this district.

In a letter to Mr. Ellison from Chairman Ben M. Neale, of the committee, it is stated that business of great importance will come up.

It is suspected that the meeting is called at the request of the Democratic legislators who are wanting a Democratic State Convention to take action against Senator Reed.

According to today's Kansas City Times, a "round robin" urging Mr. Neale to call such a meeting of the state committee at which it will be determined whether a Democratic state convention be held to take action in the fight Democratic legislators have launched against Senator James A. Reed has been signed by some forty Democratic members of the House of Representatives. William Job of Nodaway county, signed the letter.

3 BOYS HELD FOR ROBBERY

Arrested by Deputy Sheriff Charged With Entering Pederson Home Near Guilford.

John and Charley Thompson and George Gibbs were arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Gable Purcell on a charge of robbing the Martin Pederson house, two miles north of Guilford. Their preliminary will come up Friday before Justice W. L. Johnson.

These parties gave their home as Rockford, Ill., and said they were 18 and 19 years old and were on their way to the West to find work on a ranch. The boys confessed to stealing three bicycles in St. Joseph which they later traded to a man for a horse, and the horse was sold for $7. They were unable to give the name of the man where they stole the horse or of the man to whom it was sold.

From the Pederson home they took neckties, shirts, cuff buttons and 33 cents.

LIGHT VOTE IN TWP. ELECTION

Less Than 650 Ballots Had Been Cast This Afternoon in the Four Precincts.

A light vote is being polled today in the Polk township election to fill the offices of assessor, collector, township board, justices of the peace and constable. SEN. BORAH WANTS TO KNOW

He Desires To Be Informed What Has Become of the 100 Million Dollar Food Fund.

Washington, March 25.—What has become of the 100 million dollar appropriation for food supplies for Europe after we were assured it would help check the spread of Bolshevism westward? This was the pointed question asked by senator Borah today when his attention was directed to senator Hitchcock's declaration that he thought the Entente would succeed in combating the Bolsheviki of Hungary with economic pressure rather than to have to resort to the military. Senator Borah differed, however, as to what the outcome of the speeding up or the work of the peace commission would be.

CHURCH DRIVE WAS SUCCESS

It Is Announced That Victory Fund Given by Presbyterians Was Raised Maryville Church Over Top.

Dr. S. A. Coile, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and chairman of the New Era movement for the St. Joseph presbytery, has received a message from the general headquarters in New York city, that the big Victory drive being made by the Presbyterian denomination which culminated Sunday, has been highly successful.

March was designated as the "Month of Victory" for the Presbyterian people all over the country to raise fifty million dollars to carry on the work of reconstruction work over seas and finance the work in their own country made necessary by the great change in world condition. The result of the drive for the Maryville church has not been fully ascertained yet, but the pastor and workers are anticipating that it will not fall behind. All other churches in the district have been heard from and all have gone over the top with the exception of one. The Tarkio church exceeded the quota asked of it for the New Era work by nearly a thousand dollars.

Dr. Coile has spent the major part of the last month in working over the district in the interest of the movement which is the greatest in the history of the church. In the drive being made by the local church, the total for current expenses of the church for the year is being raised.

RED TROOPS MOBILIZIHG

Have Occupied the Banks and Are Taking Over Many Newspapers—Roumanians Are Advancing Into Transylvania— Serious Clashes Occur.

Paris, March 25.—The situation arising in Hungary from the Bolshevist movement is causing extreme apprehension in Paris. The outbreak has emphasized the necessity of getting the peace treaty into form at the earlist possible moment in order to enable the return of peace conventions over a greater part of the globe. President Wilson and Lloyd George again conferred on the Hungarian situation, which is now admittedly dangerous.

Delegates to the peace congress are speeding up all along the line, following the action of the war council in demanding that the Poles and the Czecho-Slovaks immediately settle their disputes about the ownership of the Terchen basin.

PAID TO HAVE SPEECH HEARD

How Governor Gardner Bargained for an Audience Upon Which to Practise Campaign Oration.

The preparation of Governor Gardner's initial speech in the gubernatorial campaign of 1916 was described to a group of newspaper men at Jefferson City recently by Omar D. Gray, state oil inspector, and himself a newspaper man, who managed the Gardner campaign. The speech was written and memorized in the mountains of California, where Mr. and Mrs. Gray were the guests of the Gardners on a hunting trip. His story follows:

"The funniest incident I remember is watching the governor parade up and down the mountain canyon committing to memory his speech, which was delivered in Chillicothe, Mo., in the latter part of September, 1916, when the fall campaign of the Democrats was opened in Missouri.

"When I arrived in California I found the governor very busy on his speech. During the primary campaign he carefully noted many of the urgent needs of the state. When I arrived at his Long Beech home he had that speech carefully mapped out—all the main points were being diagramed and every moment of his spare time was put in shaping that speech. At the end of a week we bundled up speech and all and went camping.

"Then the fun began in the camp. Every afternoon the governor would steal off up the canyon and memorize a section of that speech. Then when the camp fire was lighted at night and the dishes had been washed and put away, we would call the governor up on the carpet of green and urge him to give us the latest thoughts in the speech. He generally responded, and, in a week, all the campers could repeat the address almost word for word.

"Of course, we got tired of hearing it, so the governor, in order to get an audience, bargained with his daughter, Janet, and son, Dozier, to listen to his utterances. He paid them twenty-five cents each, but became disgusted and gave up when both went to sleep listening to him."

13 MONTHS IN YEAR?

MOVEMENT IS ON TO MAKE CALENDAR ON A 28 DAY BASIS.

IT'S WORTH CONSIDERING

There Would be Joy in it for the Wage Earner Besides Saving Lots of Valuable Time for Everybody.

Sunday, March 23, you say? Well, you're wrong. It's Sunday, Liberty 28. If you have any doubts, ask some of those American Equal Month Calendar Association fellows up in Minneapolis. They'll tell you the same, and they'll add one month from today will be Sunday, April 28; a month from that, Sunday, May 28—and so on through out the thirteen months of the year.

Sort of a jolt there, too, isn't there? In that "thirteen months" remark? But there's a joy in it, too, for the wage earner whose value is measured in terms of months, if the bill the association has prepared for introduction into Congress is passed. For a bunch of business men, bankers and reformers in Minneapolis have pledged themselves to a calendar revolution.

The Gregorian calendar, established in 1577 under Pope Gregory, is too clumsy and moth eaten for the business world of today, say these chaps and they declare that what is needed is a standard method of reckoning time that will not vary with the months and the years. Some method by which a banker may determine on what day of the week and month a note will fall due without wasting valuable time thumbing through a calendar.

You know how it is yourself. Just offhand, now, on what day does Christmas come next year—or even this year? You'll have to look it up won't you? Well, under the calendar these Minneapolis men advocate, and which they are urging the rest of the country to accept, Christmas falls on Thursday, December 25, every year. Simple, isn't it?

The year is divided into thirteen months of twenty-eight days each. Monday falls on the 1st, 8th, 15th, and 22d of every month; Tuesday on the 2d, 9th, 1th, and 23d; Wednesday on the 3d, 10th, 17th and 24th; Thursday on the 4th, 11th, 18th and 25th; Friday on the 5th, 12th, 19th and 26; Saturday on the 6th, 13th, 20th and 27; and Sunday, the last day of the week, on the 7th, 14th, 21st and 28th.

Religious sects might unite on their day of worship for the Sabbath. Sunday and the seventh day of the week fall on the same day. And for the superstitious, who dread Friday the 13th, as a Bolshevick fears soap, there must be some relief in the fact that the Liberty Calendar, for such it has been named, eliminates the possibility of Friday ever coming on the 13th.

Thanksgiving, by custom relegated to the last Thursday in November, must always fall on the 25th, while the Fourth of July would always be Thursday. Thus the Liberty Calendar simplifies the task of the bank clerk in keeping tab on holidays.

Of course, though, a system which considers thirteen months of four weeks each, can only account for 364 days. The present calendar, from which the devotees of the new sceme of time reckoning want to deviate as little as possible, bases the number of days in the year upon astronomical motion, the length of time required for the earth to revolve about the sun, or 365 days, with one additional day every four years—the 29th of February on Leap Year. This 365th day of the Liberty Calendar places in no month and in no week. It would make of New Year's day an orphan, falling between December 28th of the old year and January 1 of the new year. It's a holiday, anyhow, the Liberty Calendar sponsors say, so why take cognizance of it in a business day calendar.

And then, every four years, they would sandwich in another orphan between some two months to take care of the twenty-four hours which February mothers on Leap Year under the Gregorian system. And, as a day needs a name the same as anybody else, they would call this one "Correction Day," and would make of it another legal holiday. As once every one hundred years leap year is omitted, unless the number of the year is divisible by four hundred, "Correction Day" would have the same fate.

The present names of the months would be retained, with the addition of "Liberty" month, falling between February and March.

The conservative old world shouldn't be so very wild-eyed in its amazement, these revolutionists maintain, for it's seen a few such changes before. It wasn't till 1752, when the day after September 2 was made September 14, that the British parliament adopted the Gregorian "New Style" calendar, so the birthday of George Washington, which we celebrate on February 22, really was February 11, 1732, under the "Old Style" reckoning, which preceded the Gregorian.

Incidentally, riots attended the change to the Georgian system on the grounds that, by moving the calendar ahead ten days, the lives of the people would be shortened that length of time. The Minneapolis men who are already making use of the new plan of reckoning time, have not yet experienced any such protest, and do not anticipate it, as while they have their stationery stamped with the Liberty date line, they also carry the Gregorian. And they do not propose the universal adoption of the new system before 1922, when New Year's Day is on Sunday and the new Liberty year might begin the next day as Monday, January 1.

Club Directors Meet.

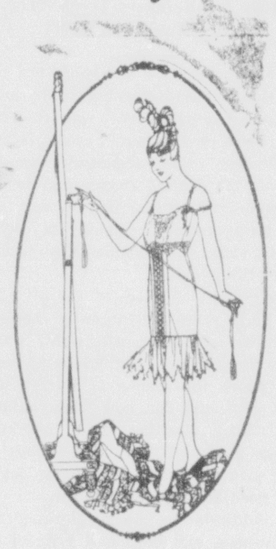
"The intimate article of dress known as the corset which the majority of women wear but know very little about"

Alice S. Cutler, M. D.



IN this pertinent way the well-known medical authority, Alice S. Cutler, M. D., describes the most important garment in the wardrobe of women.

"Buy your corset carefully," warns Dr. Cutler. "No one wants to be ill, and when women realize that the constant wearing of an ill-fitting corset helps to keep our hospitals open they will insist on being properly fitted to corsets instead of buying them hit or miss."

We unreservedly recommend Gossard Corsets, the original front-lacing corsets, as the complete expression of modern corsetry. Every Gossard Corset is hygienically correct. If properly fitted to the figure for which it was designed, and carefully adjusted each time it is worn, it will mould that figure to the ideal proportions of its type. It will give a priceless all-day comfort. It will safeguard the wearer against those bodily ailments that are often the result of improper corsetry. It will render a wearing service that alone is worth the price paid for the garment.

If possible, the new Spring and Summer Gossards are superior to those of the past season, which were generally acknowledged to be without equal in meeting the needs of active womanhood from the standpoint of comfort, hygiene, wear and figure improvement.

Our highly specialized fitted service reflects our sincere appreciation of the important relation a correctly fitted corset bears to your health, and to that perfect figure poise that gives the elusive charm of style.

ABOUT MEMORIALS

NATIONAL FINE ARTS COMMISSION WARS AGAINST SOLICITORS

URGE COMMUNITY CLUBS

Community Building Would Commemorate and Keep Alive Spirit Manifested Throughout the War.

Washington, March 25.—Practically every city in America, right now, is struggling with the same problem Kansas City is—a suitable memorial to the soldier and sailor heroes of the great war. Congress has been deluged with proposals for the Nation to erect a fitting memorial as its tribute. And the Nation will, inside of the next two years, adopt some big memorial idea. The trouble right now is that every person with a quack idea is attempting to sell it to the Nation on the idea that it would make a "fitting tribute and the only fitting tribute" to the fighting men who fell on the battle fields of Europe.

All the various proposals to the last Congress were referred to the National Fine Arts Commission, an advisory body of some of the best artistic talent in the country, which has made it its job to advise with Congress on beautifying Washington. It is recognized as one of the strongest bodies of its kind the country could muster. Instead of recommending one hard and fast plan for a national soldiers' memorial, the Fine Arts Commission has made a general report on soldiers' memorials that is of value to the entire community. It discusses the problem, not as applying to Washington, but to the country at large—from the standpoint of the small country town eager to put up some suitable memorial, as well as the city or state that is considering projects in the millions of dollars.

Warns Against Solicitors.

To begin with the Fine Arts Commission issues a warning that is particularly applicable to the small towns that are undertaking memorials. It recognizes that a tablet or memorial plate is about all that some towns can afford, but says that care must be taken to see that something enduring and worth while is obtained in this type of a memorial. The report says:

"Already firms have sent out their solicitors to take orders for statues and tablets and the land is threatened with a deluge of sterotyped forms of memorials. Many persons are persuaded that, in buying these manifold reproductions, they are making a contribution to art and are working for the improvement of their city or town, when as a matter of fact they are doing the reverse. Works of art are creations in which good proportions, simplicity and charm of design and suitability to the occasion are happily blended. If attempt is made to secure novelty, striking effects and what is popularly called "originality," the result will not be permanently pleasing. The next generation will find the thing a burden and vexation and will seek to rid themselves of the incumbus. Individuality and distinction are to be sought and these are the elements that the artist alone can furnish."

The commission goes on to say that if a tablet or plate is what the town decides it shall adopt, that it can be worked into a very fitting artistic memorial. "Memorial tablets," says the report, "whether for out of doors or for the walls of church, city hall, lodge or other building, offer a wide field for the designer. The tablets get value from the beauty of form and especially from design of the lettering. The inscription should be designed, even to the names of the individuals, and should not be made from type kept in stock by the tablet maker.

Of larger memorials the Fine Arts Commission mentions first the memorial building. The commission itself does not attempt to recommend any type, although the commissioner of education, P. P. Claxton, is undertaking a national campaign to have municipalities adopt the "Community Building" as a memorial. The bureau of education suggests that for the sake of economy it might be a school and community center building combined. In other words, the building should be a community club. The Fine Arts Com mission in discussing the "Community Building" memorial says: "Such a building would commemorate and keep alive the spirit so strikingly manifested throughout the war of an entire community uniting in a common service for the common good. It should be understood, however, that such a building, so largely utilitarian, cannot satisfy the desire for a purely commemorative work of art.'

The commission cautions against portrait statues of soldier heroes. It says such statues can be had that are works of are but that they are rare. In any event, should it be decided to erect such a memorial, the commission urges that real artists be employed, otherwise in a few years the statue will be regarded not as a town adornment. It gives much the same suggestion on "stained-glass" window memorials. Only the most competent advice should be had, it urges, should this form of a memorial be adopted.

The commission mentions gateways to parks, symbolic groups and such forms of statuary, bell towers and memorial rooms. It gives this general advice on the subject.

"If the utilitarian structure shall be used, it is of first importance that it shall impress the beholder by beauty of design, the permanent nature of the material used and the fitness of the setting. What shall be done is less important than the manner in which it is done."

The common difficulty communities find themselves in, concludes the Fine Arts Commission, is that the object of the memorial oftentimes is lost sight of in the selection. "It should ever be borne in mind that the object for which the memorial is erected is to honor heroism, patriotism and devotion to the continued progress of civilization, rendered at personal sacrifice. The monument of whatever kind should correspond in its essential character to those lofty ideals. Display of wealth, ostentation, anad over-elaborateness are unbecoming and vulgar. Elegant simplicity, strength with refinement, and a grace of handling that imparts charm are the ends to be sought."

HOMICIDE HAS DECREASED SINCE IT WAS ABOLISHED

NOT CRIME DETERRENT

Bill to Re-establish Capital Punishment in State Will Find Strong Opposition.

Jefferson City, March 25.—Not only has the number of homicides in Missouri decreased since the abolition of capital punishment but in all the states of the union where the death penalty still is inflicted for crime there is a larger proportion of homicides to population than in the states where it has been abolished, according to figures obtained by Rep. O. B. Whitaker of Hickory county, who is leading the opposition to the bill before the fiftieth general assembly proposing to re-establish the death penalty.

Missouri was without a provision for capital punishment during part of 1917 and all of 1918 as the result of a law enacted by the last legislature written and introduced by Mr. Whitaker and repealing a capital punishment law written by his father. Figures the present Hickory county representative has obtained show that in 1916 the number of homicides in Missouri increased sixty-eight over the previous year and in 1917, forty over the previous year, but in 1918 there was a decrease of eleven in the total for the state. There has been no lynching in the state, Mr. Whitaker pointed out in a circular placed on the desks of all the legislators, since capital punishment was abolished.

Six Have Abolished Penalty

According to the compilation, based on the last available federal statistics, in the registration area of the United States there are twenty states of which fourteen now inflict the death penalty as a deterrent for crime and six which have abolished the death penalty. "In the states that have abolished the death penalty," says the circular, "there is an average of approximately three and one-half homicides to every 100,000 population. In the states that have not abolished the death penalty there is an average of approximately eight and one-half homicides to every 100,000 populations."

Mr. Whitaker incorporates in the statement data previously given out showing the answers received to letters he wrote to the governors of eleven states where the death penalty has been abolished to show that these executives did not believe crime has increased, denied that the particular crimes for which the death penalty was formerly inflicted had increased, said lynching had not increased, and the people of their states did not want a return to the capital punishment laws.

"There are unanswerable arguments for enacting the law two years ago, abolishing the death penalty in Missouri," he concludes. "Are there not now additional reasons why the law should not be repealed?"

A poll of the students at four Missouri normal schools showed sentiment strongly against a return to capital punishment.
